

INFORMATION FOR STUDENTS AND RESEARCHERS AN IONA COMMUNITY READING LIST

The Iona Community receives a considerable number of enquiries and requests for interviews, further information, etc, from people writing school or college essays or doing academic research. Unfortunately, the Community generally does not have the personnel resources to respond to such requests, which can be extremely time-consuming. However, in order to make material about its life, work and concerns widely available, it has published many books, CDs and DVDs through its publishing house, Wild Goose Publications. These may be obtained through bookshops, borrowed or requested in libraries or purchased through www.ionabooks.com A reading list is given below.

Further useful information about the Community may be found on the Community's website at www.iona.org.uk , particularly by following the links in the section About the Iona Community > Our History. This will also give access to a report on the Community's oral history of its early years. The Iona Community's magazine, Coracle, and the Iona Community monthly e-bulletin also contain much useful information, and can be downloaded from the website. Since many questions about the Community can be answered by reference to the website, we recommend a careful reading of it.
